A HALT IN THE HERESY TRIAL

ABLE DEFENSE IN BEHALF OF DR. BRIGGS

President Patton's Statement in Reference to the Committee's Report—The Speeches for and Against.

DETROIT, MICH., May 28 .- When the Presbyterian Assembly's opening hour drew near this morning there was much more than the usual attendance in and about the Frontstreet church, where the sessions are being held. The interest in the Briggs case was strong enough not only to bring about a much larger attendance of commissioners at the opening prayer service, but to fill the galleries with interested spectators. By the time the hour for the business session arrived the church was filled. There was no suppression of excitement. The reading clerk ran over the minutes of the Assembly, but no one heard him, because the church was full of con-versation, and when the minutes were read the Assembly, squared away for the battle with heresy which has divided in interest in this Assembly with the report of the com-mittee on the revision of the standard of faith

FAVORED THE TEXT.

The report of the committee on theological seminaries had been printed and was in every commissioner's hands when President Patton opened the discussion. He spoke for the committee on what he termed a few words of explanation, but what was really an argument in defense of the report favoring the veto of Dr. Brigg's appointment. He felt that all were willing to credit the committee with the desire to do what was best. In the fullest were willing to credit the committee with the desire to do what was best. In the fullest recognition of possibility of mistake, the committee had been actuated by one desire, to do what was demanded by the exigencies of the occasion, and to do it in kindness and with recognition of the rights of all concerned. Different action was not taken because the committes was clear that this was best. It was the least the assembly could do and the most the assembly was called upon to do. They had tried to consider both present and future in making up the report. If the time came during the delate they were ready to give the reasons for every recommendation. If protracted debate became necessary, it would be conducted in the spirit which actuated the work of the in the spirit which actuated the work of the Professor Henry P. Smith, of Lane Seminary, rose to the defense of Dr. Briggs the moment President Patton had concluded. He denounced the report as a proposition to put an end to the usefulness of a minister of God. The adoption of the report would put a stain on a minister, harm the Church and cripple a school already hurt by death. Professor Smith was caustic in his reference to Dr. Green of Princeton. Not every school, he said, could hope to have professors of the physical and mental stature of Dr. Green. Dr. Briggs had been a prefessor of the Union for seventeen years. He had ability. Those who knew him indorsed him. It had been said that he had been misunderstood and was not sound in his doctrine. Would he be condemned on these grounds before he was DR. BRIGGS DEFENDED. demned on these grounds before he was heard? The religious press, composed of papers supposed to be published in the in-terest of the Presbyterian Church, had become omnipotent and consequently magnified their offices. A large majority of commissioners had received their impressions from these papers competent as a jury to decide the case. No man could be a specialist in this de-partment. Not even the editor of a religious partment. Not even the editor of a religious paper. These gentlemen had misunderstood Dr. Briggs. They judged him on the popu-lar plane, and not on the plane of theological

The inaugural address of Dr. Briggs was de-livered to a select audience. The next week a religious paper published a syllabus of the address and editorially made an onslaught upon Dr. Briggs. In any court in the land would such evidence be received to convict a would such evidence be received to convict a man? It was upon what might be called a mere table of contents of inaugural address that many Presbyterians had acted. Should he be judged on a syllabus of an address, a man who had published four works? The second charge, that he was not orthodox, was the graver one. There were a number of assertions in the address which, whatever might be said of their prudence, could not be said to the contrary to the tenets of confession. Continuing, Prothe tenets of confession. Continuing, Pro-fessor Smith said that in the Presbyterian fessor Smith said that in the Presbyterian Church a man was a heretic who violated the system of doctrine. The general opinion seemed to prevail that a man charged with an infraction was guilty. If the verbal form of confession was to be insisted upon most of those present would have to leave the Church. There are three charges against Dr. Briggs for his presbytery to consider. They were his claims of errors in the Bible translation called itinerant transmission, progressive sanctification and infant damnation. Dr. Warfield, of Princeton, published a book showing that certain portions of the New Testament were irregular. the New Testament were irregular.

PROGRESSIVE SANCTIFICATION, The most serious point was that of progressive sanctification. He did not fully understand what Dr. Briggs meant on this point. Perhaps Dr. Briggs could explain. The Bible and the confession had been misunderstood; why not Dr. Briggs' position? The doctrine of the Presbyterian Church The doctrine of the Presbyterian Church meant that every minute of time thirty human beings dropped into hell. This went on for centuries. Did they ever reflect and trace the problem and keep out of the lunatic asylum? He thought that possibly God might find some relief for them.

Rev. S. C. Logan, D. D., of Scranton, Pa., wanted the action proposed by the committee modified. In the second resolution he wanted a change made, adding the name of Dr. Briggs to those to be conferred with. Not only was a professor to be tried, but a whole only was a professor to be tried, but a whole system of control of the education of minis-ters for the Presbyterian Church. It would tend to the peace of the Church, and they could postpone action.

PRESIDENT PATTON'S REPLY.

President Patton of Princeton, took the floor in behalf of the report of the commit-tee. He said he admired Dr. Briggs as a friend. The committee would not put a straw in his way. They had hired the man in good faith and were not responsible for the utter-ances in his inaugural. The only difficult point to his mind was the interpretation of point to his mind was the interpretation of the compact between the Union and the Presbyterian Assembly. If that compact permitted the exercise of the veto, and he thought it did, the duty of the assembly lay in the direction of exercising the veto or stopping it once for all. He did not believe in qualified or moral condemnation. The assembly must make its condemnation direct if it made it at all.

if it made it at all.

Dr. Dickie, of the Union Seminary, rather disappointed the assembly by his failure to back Briggs as strongly as had been expected. Dr. Dickie said he saw no sense in condemning Dr. Briggs anyway. The assembly might in its haste do something that would be repented at leisure. The claim of the report was, that according to the compact with the Union Seminary the power of the veto could not be exercised if withheld a year. could not be exercised if withheld a year. The assembly might interpret the compact its way, Dr. Dickie said. Dr. Briggs had been elected most informally. The speaker had not been versed either with the election or the inaugural, but supposed if the professor had not tried to air scholarship, but had paid attention solely to the subject of the authority of the Bible, all would have been well. As it is he asked for a year's delay, and if he were alive through that time he would do all in his power to bring about a reconciliation.

Recess was then taken. Recess was then taken.

Judge Breckenridge Dies Suddenly. When the assembly reassembled for the afternoon, Judge Breckenridge, of St. Louis, said he had been urged to speak of the logal phase of the question. Years ago the Union Seminary was of an association. In 1870 it had its officers and of its own will came under the power of the assembly, so as far as the disapproval of the professors was concerned, the assembly had no right to approve. It had only the right to disapprove. The power to disapprove, if not exercised at the meeting following the election, was abrogated. This made the duty and right of the assembly under the law very clear. There was no power to delay the action, therefore, the admitment of Dr. Logan would be of no avail it had no force and had its officers and of its own will came under could be of no avail. It had no force and might prove vicious as tending to dulude the commissioners with the idea that the matter could be deferred.

There were only three things that could be done—either disapprove, do as the committee had done, or they could refuse to disapprove of Dr. Briggs and send the matter back to the directors because the proceedings were Requirements of Licensing Discussed-Next Place of Meeting.

BIRMINGHAM, ALA., May S .- [Special.]-After this morning's session of the Presbyterian Assembly had been formally opened a communication was read from the Northern Assembly, in session at Detroit, Mich., sending fraternal greetings.

The auditing committe reported that the statements of the treasurer of home and foreign mission board were correct and in proper shape, as were also the books and accounts of the stated clerk and treasurer.

of the stated clerk and treasurer.

The assembly went into the further consideration of the two papers submitted by the members of the committee on education relative to the proposed changes in the requirements for licensing of preachers.

A number of speeches were made, the most important being those of Messrs. Cleveland, Price, Jennings and Willis against sending down to the presbyteries an overture favoring the proposed changes, and by Drs. Pitzner and Hoge advocating the sending down of such overture.

A SUBSTITUTE OFFEBED.

Dr. Houston offered a substitute for the Dr. Houston offered a substitute for the paper termed number two, which substitute was in affect that the assembly declines to send down the proposed overture. On a question of order the moderator ruled that if Dr. Houston's motion was adopted the matter would be settled. Dr. Hoge appealed for this ling but the sembly sustained the decision of the moderator.

the decision of the moderator.

The substitute was adopted by a vote of ninety-five to forty-three, Judge Charles Gratten of Staunton, Va., voting in the affirmative in order to move for a reconsideration.

In the afternoon Judge Gratten made a motion to reconsider the action had at the morning session, but after an explanation from Dr. McIlwaine of Virginia, that no unfairness was intended the side favoring the overture, the motion to reconsider was withdrawn. NEXT PLACE OF MEETING.

Hot Springs, Ark., and New Orleans were put in nomination for the next place of meeting, resulting in the selection of Hot Springs. The balance of the afternoon was consumed in hearing reports on synodical records and other reasons was consumed in the reasons with the reasons were reasons as the reasons were reasons with the reasons were reasons with the reasons were reasons were other routine matters.

The special order for the night session was the report from the committee on foreign correspondence about the Pan-Alliance. This report recommended that the Southern Pres-byterian Church sever its connection with the Alliance, and that no delegates be sent to the Toronto meeting. The recommendations were made because of the expense to be incurred in sending representatives to the Alli-ance meetings, and also because the Church does not favor the concencus creed.

MB. BEYAN'S SUBSTITUE ADOPTED. Ma, Bryan's substitute abopted.

Rev. T. P. Bryan moved as a substitute that the assembly continue its connection with the Alliance, that a committee be appointed to select thirty delegates for the Toranto meeting, and that the funds to defray necessary expenses be raised by private subscribtions, but that the Southern Presbyterian Church is opposed to the concensus creed. This substitute was strongly opposed, but was finally adopted by a large majority. adopted by a large majority.

The assembly then adjourned until 9 o'clock to-morrow morning.

The Maryland Diocese.

BALTIMORE, May 28.—The Maryland Dioce san Convention began its business this morning with the report of the committee on rights of clergymen to seats. This report named all the ciergymen to seats. This report named all the clergymen who have the right and privilege of the convention, and when it came before the body Rev. Dr. James A. Harrold, of Washington, offered to amend by having his own name inserted in the list, it having been left out by the committee.

A lengthy discussion followed which necessitated a suspension of the rules which we sitated a suspension of the rules which provided for the election of the standing committee. At noon the bishop made another speech in concluding the debate, after which the vote was taken.

It was against Dr. Harrold's claim. Then on motion of Mr. Charles Albert, of Montgomery county, the convention allowed him a seat on the floor as an act of courtesy.

ACTION IN THE HOUSE OF COMMONS.

The Government Allows the Bill to Be Read on Conditions-Balmaceda's Stubbornness_Foreign Events.

(By Cable to The Times.) LONDON, May 28 .- In the House of Commons this evening the Hon. William Henry Smith said that on the promise of the Newfoundland delegates that they would carry out the "modus vivendi," and the award of arbitrators thereunder, the Government proposed that the Knutsford bill be read with the agreement to postpone the next stage of the bill for three weeks. If by that time the Colonial Legislature had passed the measure promised, the Government would withdraw the bill. Mr. Smith then moved the second reading.

Mr. J. L. Picton (Liberal), of Leicester, Mr. J. L. Pieton (Liberal), of Leicester, moved an adjournment on the debate. Mr. Smith said that the Government was bound to obtain a sanction of Parliament to the principle of the bill. After the second reading an opportunity would be given to reverse the whole transaction. Mr. Picton insisting on his motion, a decision was had, resulting in the defeat of the motion by a vote against adjournment of 195 to 122.

> Italy's Alarming Condition. (By Cable to The Times.)

London, May 28.—The Times correspondent gives a gloomy review of the financial and political situations of Italy. He presents facts and figures to show that constitutionalism in Italy is falling into degradation and that the State is becoming bankrupt. Patriotism has declined since 1870, and everything is given up to personal ambition and a struggle for existence. In case of a crists, the Catho-lic vote would probably be thrown again and a reactionary government put in charge.

Measures Against Jews.

TB7 Cable to the Times.1 London, May 28.—The Prussian authorities have ordered the sternest measures on the Posen frontier to keep the Russian and Polish Jews out of Germany. The roads at the boundary are patrolled by troops and the railway stations are carefully watched. The military bave instructions to aid the civil authorities in preventing undesirable emigrants from living in or passing through Prussia.

That Behring Sea Matter.

(By Cable to The Times.) LONDON, May 28. - Mr. Goschen, Chancellor London, May 28.—Mr. Goschen, Chancellor of the Exchequer, gave notice in the House of Commons to-day that on Monday next he would introduce a bill, the provisions of which would enable Her Majesty's Government to prohibit the taking of scals in the waters of Behring Sea for a period which would be specified in the bill.

The Behring Sea bill, Mr. Goschen says, will be introduced to-morrow instead of Mon-

SECRET CONSISTORY.

The Long-Expected Event is Set for Monday

NEW ORLEANS, May 28 .- The Rome correspondent of the Catholic News cables that the long-expected secret consistory is officially set for Monday, June 1st, to be followed by a public consistory on Thursday, June 4th, to confer the 'red hat' on Cardinal Vannutelli Rofelli (reserved In Petto) in the consistory of December 30, 1880, and to be published in the coming secret consistory of June, and in Cardinal Damajewski. Bishop of Cracow.

No new cardinals will be affirmed or created at present. This latter statement sets at vest Kendrick, archbishop of St. Louis, on the occasion of his golden jubilee, which will be celebrated on November 30, 1891.

· Roanoke Elections.

ROANOKE, VA., May 28.—Municipal elections were held here to-day for the election of two councilmen from each of the three wards of the city. Political lines were not drawn, and a light vote was polled. R. J. Eckloff and M. C. Thomas were elected in the First ward: W. W. Coe, chief engineer of the Norfolk and Western railroad, and W. P. Campin in the Second; J. S. Graves and Ed, Welch in the
